- Inform you of the assessed value of your property for tax year 2025-26, and tell you how to challenge it if you believe there is a mistake.
- Explain how property taxes are calculated.
- Provide an estimate of your property tax for tax year 2025-26.

Please keep a copy of this notice with your records. You may also view your NOPV and property tax bills online at www.nyc.gov/nopv.

ESTIMATED 2025-26 PROPERTY TAX

We cannot calculate your 2025-26 property tax until the new tax rate is established by the city council. Until then, you will pay the 2024-25 rate. The table below estimates the amount you will owe by multiplying the taxable value of your property by the current tax rate of 12.500%. This table is provided for informational purposes only; the actual amount you owe may differ.

Please note that property tax abatements, including the co-op/condo abatement, are not included in this estimate. If you receive any abatements, they will be subtracted from your property taxes. Check your July tax bill for the value of any abatements you receive.

ABOUT YOUR PROPERTY TAXES

Property taxes are determined using a complex formula that takes into account many different amounts and calculations. Visit www.nyc.gov/nopv for more information about property valuation and taxation.

The Department of Finance estimates your property's market value by examining rental buildings of similar characteristics as well as rental trends in similar neighborhoods. These properties are selected based on characteristics they have in common with your property.

Your property is a residential lot within a condominium. The Department of Finance estimates that as of January 5, 2025, your property's market value is $192,902.

We estimate that as of January 5, 2025, the market value for all of the residential lots in your condominium building or development is $3,755,000. The Department of Finance uses the gross square footage of the building or development to determine your market value. We estimate the rent for your condominium lot as $2,679 per month.

The market value of your lot was derived by attributing a portion of the total residential value. This is done by adjusting your percentage interest in the total building to reflect your interest in the residential portion only. Your percentage interest in the building is 4.290%. This percentage is multiplied by 1.198 because the total condominium interests are 100%, but the residential portion is 83.500% (100% / 83.500%). The resulting percentage is multiplied by the total residential value in the building or development to determine the value of your lot.

Once your market value has been determined, the Department of Finance takes the following steps to determine your property tax:

- Multiply your property's market value of $192,902 by 45% (its "level of assessment") to determine its assessed value (AV), which is $86,806. Your AV cannot exceed 45% of your market value.
- For buildings with 11 or more units, we phase in changes to the AV over a five-year period. This results in a "transitional assessed value" of $76,328 for your property. We use the transitional AV to calculate your property tax bill if it is lower than your actual AV.
- If you receive any exemptions, we subtract their value from your property's actual or transitional assessed value to calculate the taxable value. Your property's exemption value is $0.
- Your property tax is determined by applying the city's tax rate to your taxable value, which is $76,328. Any abatements that you receive are then applied to reduce your tax bill.

See the table and definitions on page three for more information about these values.

For more information about condominium valuation, visit www.nyc.gov/nopv.

If you own income-producing property, you must file a Real Property Income and Expense (RPIE) statement or a claim of exclusion unless you are exempt by law. You must also file information about any ground or second floor commercial units on the premises, even if you are exempt from filing an RPIE statement. The deadline to file is June 2, 2025. Failure to file will result in penalties and interest, which will become a lien on your property if they go unpaid. Visit www.nyc.gov/rpie for more information.

How You Will Be Billed:

Property tax bills are mailed quarterly for properties with an assessed value of $250,000 or less and semiannually for properties assessed at more than $250,000. If you pay your property taxes through a bank, mortgage servicing company, or co-op board, you will not receive a bill from the Department of Finance unless you are responsible for other charges, such as sidewalk or emergency repair charges.
